

Gros Morne Backcountry

For experienced & advanced skiers & snowshoers.

DAY 1

Depart Deer Lake for Gros Morne National Park

68km | 54mins

Meet with Parks Canada

A Parks Canada staff person will brief you on the inherent risks with winter wilderness travel and prepare you for your trip into the backcountry of Gros Morne National Park.

Ski to Southwest Gulch Hut

The hut is tucked into the hillside surrounded by tall spruce and fir trees, offering protection from winter winds and a magnificent view of the Tablelands. The suggested routes to and from the hut are steep and require the ability to control speed.

Distance: 7-8km (depending on route)

Time 3-5 hrs (one way)

Elevation: 360m

Hazards specific to this area: exposed ski terrain, prone to high winds and white out conditions.

Avalanche potential.

Overnight: Southwest Gulch Backcountry Hut

DAY 2

Ski and Explore

A remote backcountry experience and thrilling ski terrain!

Southwest Gulch is in the Tablelands region, where the terrain ranges from steep snow-filled bowls to the woods of Crow Mountain in the east. This mountainous region within Gros Morne National Park offers challenging ski terrain, best suited to the skilled, experiences skier and wilderness traveller.

If you choose to ski to the top of the Tablelands or to other high points in the area the views of the fjords and Bonne Bay are breathtaking, and the ski terrain is endless!

Overnight: Southwest Gulch Backcountry Hut

DAY 3

Depart Backcountry for Woody Point

7-8km ski, 3-5 hrs

Relax at a cozy cottage

Relax in the forested hillside of Gros Morne National Park or along the coast of Bonne Bay. Connect with nature as you've never experienced.

Enjoy sustainably sourced, expertly prepares, delicious food at Taste restaurant, located in the Gros Morne Inn.

Overnight options:

Middle Brook Cottages & Chalets
Curzon Chalets

